DISPENSARY,

623 Kearny St,

Corner Commercial Street,

SAN FRANCISCO.

Established in 1854 for the treatment of sexual and Seminal Diseases such as Gonorrhœa, Gleet Stricture Syphilis in all its forms Seminal Weakness, Impotency etc Skin Diseases (of years standing) and Rheumatism successfully treated.

DR. GIBBON has the pleasure of announcing that he has returned from visiting the principal Hospitals of Europe and has resumed practice at his Dispensary 623 Kearney street, corner of Commercial, San Francisco where his old patients and those requiring his services may find him.

The Doctor has spared neither time nor money in seeking out new remedies, and has returned with increased facilities for the alleviation of human suffering

Horrible Diseases

How many thousands of persons both male and female are there who are suffering out a miserable existence from the effects of secret indulgences or from virus absorbed into the system. Look at their pallid, emaciated and disfigured faces and their broken-down constitutions disqualifying them for the happiness of marriage or the enjoyment of life. In this horrid situation thousands suffer until death closes the scene. Let parents, guardians friends attend to those who are suffering with any of these horrible life-destroying maladies—see that they are cared for and cured before it be too late. Send them immediately to DR. GIBBON a physician who has made private diseases his especial study for years, and who is certain to cure the most inveterate case, without mercury or any injurious drugs. It is important to those who are afflicted or to those who are interested in the welfare of their friends to be careful of the many pretended doctors who infest all cities publishing their skill in curing all diseases in a few days, imposing upon the public by using the names of eminent physicians from Europe and other places. So therefore careful and make strict inquiry or you may fall into the hands of those charlatans

Seminal Weakness.

Seminal Emissions the consequence of self abuse. This solitary vice or depraved sexual indulgence is practiced by the youth of both sexes to an almost unlimited extent, producing with unerring certainty, the following train of morbid symptoms unless combatted by scientific medical measures viz. Sallow countenance dark spots under the eyes pain in the head ringing in the ears noise like the rustling of leaves and rattling of chariots uneasiness about the loins, weakness of the limbs confused vision blunted intellect loss of confidence diffidence in approaching strangers a dislike to form new acquaintances disposition to shun society loss of memory hectic flushes, pimples and various eruptions about the face furred tongue fetid breath, coughs consumption, night sweats monomania and frequent insanity. If relief be not obtained should apply immediately either in person or by letter and have a cure effected by his new and scientific mode of treating this disease which never fails of effecting a quick and radical cure. Dr G will give One Hundred Dollars to any person who will prove satisfactorily to him that he was cured of this complaint by either of the San Francisco quacks.

Married Men,

Or those who contemplate marriage, who are suffering under any of these fearful maladies should not forget the sacred responsibility resting upon them, nor delay to obtain immediate relief.

DR. GIBBON is responsible and will give to each patient a written instrument, binding himself to effect a radical and permanent cure, or make no charge.

Cured at Home.

Persons at a distance may be CURED AT HOME, by addressing a letter to Dr Gibbon, stating case, symptoms length of time the disease has continued and have medicines promptly forwarded free from damage and curiosity, to any part of the country with full and plain directions. By inclosing Ten Dollars coin in registered letter through the Postoffice or through Wells Fargo & Co s package of medicine will be forwarded to any part of the Union All communications strictly confidential.

Address DR. J F GIBBON 623 Kearney street corner Commercial San Francisco Postoffice Box 1957. REMEMBER 10 PUT BOX 1 957 ON THE LETTER. Consultations FREE.

... of the Board of Indian Commissioners.

Long Branch, July 29.—The Board of Indian Commissioners called on President Grant this morning and remained with him until noon. The administration of Indian affairs was earnestly discussed. The president announced unfaltering confidence in the humane and Christian policy by him adopted. The subject of the charges made by Prof ... was discussed and a most thorough investigation of them demanded. Prof. Geo Hatherton and Senator Howe, of Wisconsin have already gone forward to the Red Cloud agency to serve on the commission. The president was earnest in the exercise of the full power of the executive in reforming any branch of the service and pledged his hearty co-operation with the board with whom he is in entire accord. Neither the secretary of the interior nor the commissioner of Indian affairs was present at the conference. The gradual removal of all Indians in the country to the Indian territory to the south of Kansas was discussed and measures adopted looking to the carrying out of the plan. The board of Indian commissioners have issued an address to the Christian public, asking their support of the humane policy toward the Indians. They say that this policy despite the assaults upon it has been eminently successful. The Indians are taking on the manners and occupations of civilized life. In regard to Indian agents while they admit that perhaps a few may have become corrupt, they feel confident that the government was never so faithfully served in this respect as at the present time. Neither the board nor the government could be deterred in accepting the loud mouthed accusations as an evidence of guilt, as most of the charges come from disappointed contractors or traders whose ... of gain under more careful letting of contracts ... inspection of supplies is done for. On ... hand, would they be justified in withholding the most rigid investigation when ... has cases, charges are made by respectable and responsible parties? They appeal to the missionary ... to nominate none but the best men for the ... of agents, and state that in all measures of ... they have the cordial support of the government.

... of the Failure—Who Some of the Losers are.

New York, July 30—Mr Duncan stated yesterday that at least five sixths of the letters of credit ... against, the firm were secured by special deposits, or by notes drawn for this special purpose and properly secured in which the maker agrees to pay such amount as he drew against it, and in all such cases these letters formed no part of the assets of the firm. The director of the Mobile and Ohio railroad says that the road was financially in a very low condition when Mr Duncan was elected president. When the interest of the second mortgage bonds was due in April the company was not in a condition to meet ... and an arrangement was made by which the bonds were taken up by Duncan Sherman & Co ... but I think the money was advanced by the firm, but from Alex. Duncan who was in Scotland. Then Duncan was appointed receiver of the road the bonded debt of the road amounted to over $12,000,000 and thought Mr Duncan holds a large amount of these bonds which he originally took as security. This alone however couldn't be the cause of the failure as the bonds could not have cost over an average of 20 per cent of their face. Their value, in his opinion was very large. The amount was sunk in the New York and Montreal railroad scheme.

It is said Thos. Moss had $40,000 with the firm. Henderson & Colgill, $30,000 and Wm Whateley had a large sum. J. L Toole holds their paper ... he bought a fortnight ago to the extent of $... H. J. Montague deposited with them his savings and John Brougham had his entire fortune in their house. Mountain Meadows Massacre.

Jesse N. Smith

Sworn—Live at Parowan was there in 1857 sold the Mountain Meadows emigrants flour and all they wanted they wanted vegetables. I hadn t them. In August of that year I accompanied Geo A Smith on a visit to the southern settlements. He spoke against selling grain to emigrants to feed stock and discouraged all persons feeding bread grain to horses. After the emigrants passed Parowan Co Dame told me he was told the Indians had attacked the emigrants and sent me to find out went on, and heard at Pinto that it was so but the emigrants had beaten off the Indians returned and reported to Dame

Cross examination—Neither I nor Dame took steps to relieve the emigrants so besieged

Silas S Smith

Sworn—Lived at Parogoonah in August, 1857 saw Geo A Smith in Southern Utah visited the southern settlements with him in preaching he discouraged all not to touch grain to feed stock. The first knowledge I had of the Arkansas emigrants, Geo A Smith and I met them on Corn creek 40 miles north of Beaver they came to our camp and asked if the Indians would eat their oxen which died and lay near the camp they were replied that probably they would. Hamblin, Hoops Farnsworth and others composed our camp. In two days I returned passing the emigrants at Indian Creek, 6 miles north of Beaver and took up per with them. In a few days they they reached my town 30 miles south of Beaver talked with the leader think his name was Fancher. A few days after Duke s emigrant train came on. Co Dame sent me and a party of ten men to relieve them from attack by Indians came here to Beaver and found the train camped corralled and rifle pits made. We got the principal up and compromised the matter by taking them beef and blankets. The Indians claimed that the emigrants had shot one of their warriors. At first nothing but blood would satisfy them. I was a captain of militia am cousin to Geo A Smith he was on Gen D A Wells staff

Cross examination—Don t l now that Geo A Smith was down here to inspect militia the companies would be called out as he passed the settlements I presume in his honor it was not unusual to do so. Col Dame s adjutant would inspect the arms. I traveled with Geo A Smith 150 miles south to Santa Clara in all his meetings I didn t hear the Arkansas emigrants referred to. The emigrants asked us where they could stop to recruit stock. I heard they were advised to do it on Mountain Meadows as there was the most grass there and on the California road. The last witness my brother never compared notes with me about the case or what we should testify told the attorney what I would swear to my brother was present then, to ascertain the extent of our knowledge my brother and I talked the case over as we came here heard that the testimony here had implicated Geo A Smith was not subpenaed here came with a lot of others heard I was telegraphed for with others. Smith s mission was to instruct the people don t know that it had any military object he had a family at Parowan Smith and Dame counseled together possibly he counseled with President Haight didn t hear or remember any consultation about military affair we saw Higbee at Cedar the militia was on parade at Parowan as Smith came in town had a muster at Washington and at Harmony. don t remember that we stayed at Lee s house all recollection about Harmony, where I lived, is now gone from my memory as to that trip never heard emigrants mentioned till we met them. Geo A Smith never told me they had passed Salt Lake they swore but I don t know how many others they swore at on camp did hear them say by God. Can t remember the connection in which that oath was used am a Mormon and remember that oath as it grated on my ears remember no other oath, but heard blasphemous language from them thought them a rough set of fellows surmised the emigrants were going to poison the ox as the question asked about the probability of Indians eating the ox after it was dead was so unusual took no steps to warn the Indians about it heard the Duke train admit they shot Indians saw the wounded Indian a guard shot him in the night as he was lurking around the train understood the Arkansas emigrants divided into three parts afterwards and united before getting into the Meadows

Elisha Hoops,

Sworn—In August 1857 went with G A Smith s party northward from Beaver met the Arkansas emigrants at Corn Creek talked with them they used Geo A Smith where the best camping places were he referred them to Hamblin who told them saw a dead ox in the emigrants camp they had a German doctor along saw him puncture the ox and pour in something from a vial. Indians told me they gave him two buckskins for the ox heard the emigrants ask if the Indians would probably eat the ox

Cross examination—Saw the doctor do it from our wagon. Hamlin Farnsworth Silas Smith George A Smith and myself were all in the wagon at the time don t know if they cut it saw the Indians skin the ox thought they wanted the skin to make moccasin soles was not in the wagon when the ox was punctured didn t swear just now we were all in the wagon when it happened [The reporters notes were read showing he did] Something got loose and I guess I got out and got in again nothing was said right there about poisoning the ox thought it was poisoned to kill coyotes though I had told the emigrants the Indians would probably eat the ox yet didn t warn the Indians thought the doctor would warn the Indians not to eat it saw the Indians give the doctor the buckskins for the ox, talked with that doctor before that talked about water grass the country and its facilities talked with him about the cholera he said camphor capsicum and opium were good remember that much of the conversation

The Defense Weak and Conflicting—The Sole Aim is to Protect Brigham

The examination of these three witnesses excites the deepest interest. The first two were Mormon officers—one a probate judge, the other clerk and legislator. The last witness a polygamist recently had an apostate arrested for marrying a woman alleging that the woman was sealed to him (Hoops). Baskin s cross examination was terribly severe. The almost universal sentiment and comment here is that the defense is weak in theory and conflicting. The defendant s counsel are not in harmony as to the line of defense. Counsellor Sutherland s course impresses all that his sole aim is to protect Brigham Young.

Lee's Wife has the Written Order for the Destruction of Emigrants.

It is positively asserted that Rachael (Lee s wife) has possession of the written order from Salt Lake for the destruction of the emigrants. Lee s family suddenly packed up and left town at daybreak yesterday. Emma who assaulted the jailer escaped arrest and is gone too. It is believed the defense will close this week

After recess the cross examination of Hoops was resumed. It opened with a lively skirmish and hard words between the witness and Baskin. The knife the doctor used was a dagger had a cross-guard. He would drive it clear into an ox. He stabbed first in the shoulder next along the back near the hip, next about the hip. We were moving off when the poisoning began and then stopped a few minutes to fix the harness while it went on. It was a buckle of the breast strap broke. Got a buckskin string and tied up the harness—no I mean the ring of the breast strap—no I mean the buckle. It didn t take half an hour—well not more than that. Saw the knife penetrate the ox. He then took a vial and poured in the hole. Can t say how long after the harness broke before we started on. It was under half an hour. The doctor then stepped off and the Indians came up. I didn t say this morning it was 15 minutes till the Indians came up after the doctor stepped off. The reporters notes were read showing he did so swear

Well wasn t that under half an hour? Didn t say I was out of the wagon while the poisoning was going on. Either you or I lie. Reporters notes showed he did so swear also that it went on file that he was fixing harness. Witness appealed to the court. The court said witness was not being abused. I am questions only were being asked

Cross examination proceeded at great length witness making all sorts of statements as to details of the alleged poisoning and frequently changing his position

Philo T. Farnsworth

Sworn—Was bishop in the church in 1857. So was John Morgan. Morgan was not cut off because he sold cheese to the emigrants. The man lived on Beaver before and after the emigrants passed and was never disfellowshipped went from Beaver to Fillmore with Geo A Smith. He didn t know nor I that the emigrants were in the territory till we met them at Corn creek. Smith preached not to furnish grain to any persons to feed stock. He never mentioned emigrants. Met a company of emigrants on Corn creek camped near them. Next morning one of the emigrants asked us if we supposed the Indians would eat an ox that died at their camp. The reply was yes probably. Afterwards saw a man at the ox with Indians believe this was the same train massacred at Mountain Meadows. Duke s emigrant train came along by Beaver ten days afterward heard the company had divided. They were attacked here in Beaver by Indians

A Sharp Passage.

The court held that any ties or attacks on this party were not material, and ruled the testimony out. A warm passage took place on this point between the court and Sutherland for the defense over the former promise of counsel to connect the ties of the two parties of emigrants. Sutherland asked the court to withdraw its censure. The court replied the censure ought to be more severe for having stated he would connect the acts at Corn creek with the massacre at the Meadows and now stating he can only do so by showing grievances between the Duke party and Indians. Democratic State Convention.

Salem July 30 1875

The members of the convention were pretty hard at work during the noon recess yesterday but all their efforts to reconcile matters seemed to be futile and it was not deemed necessary for the committee on credentials to be in any hurry to report as things outside the committee room were not in fit condition for the regular work of the general convention to go on. In other words no candidate was satisfied to go into balloting, not seeing his way through clearly. By the general talk it would be readily inferred that the fight lay between Lane and Whiteaker principally though Hayden Slater Reed and Nesmith each had some strength. For a time the battle was apparently about as much in favor of Whiteaker as Lane. When you talked with a man from the central counties of this valley you would think Whiteaker stock was up a cetera a few minutes talk with a bed rocker from Southern Oregon would lead you to believe that Lane s chances were pretty certain but mingling with the delegates from Eastern Oregon one would naturally come to the conclusion that the whole thing was mightily mixed.

The ostensible reason that the committee on credentials was so long in getting their report ready yesterday afternoon was the difficulty in deciding who were to be admitted to seats as delegates from Umatilla county

THE SQUABBLE IN UMATILLA

Arose, as near as we could get at it, in about this wise. Last year a good many men in that county, as well as many other counties of this State became very much disgusted with the way party matters had been carried on for the benefit of the politicians, and concluded that a good way to bring the rampant Democracy of Umatilla to halt in their career of political skullduggery was to consider it a matter of no great national and but very little political importance whether the offices in that county were all filled by regular party nominees and that some men had just as much right to be sheriff and county judge as some other men. J H Turner who had a good Democratic record as will more fully appear hereafter, was one of these men and so last year he went in with other Democrats and Republicans to break up a Democratic ring in Umatilla. Nye was sheriff of the county and wanted to be re elected, and was renominated, but beaten by the Independent candidate. But to heal matters up this year and bring the recalcitrants back into the Democratic fold a call was issued inviting all to attend and take part in the primaries, the wing calling itself the regular party thinking they had strength enough to control matters if the disaffected were not aided by the Republicans of the county. But behold! when the county convention met to elect delegates to this assemblage the regulars found the disaffected to outnumber themselves and Turner and Bishop who last year had acted with the Independents, were chosen to the State Convention. Also that four others, who made a similar record in 1874 were chosen, and the regular crowd straightway went out to stand. They stood out and selected six straights as delegates among whom was Nye, the sheriff. So it comes that Umatilla had two sets of delegates here. Just how the committee on credentials ever arrived at the conclusion at which they did in the matter we cannot say as they admitted some of each set and ruled out others

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON CREDENTIALS

When at last the committee on credentials reported it showed the make-up of the convention to be as follows. Counties included in call 23 counties unrepresented 4, number of delegates in call 121, delegates in convention 69 proxies in convention 41 whole number of votes in convention 110

The men most sought after by candidates were Icon of Baker who had 11 votes Fondray, of Jackson who had 8 and Hazard, of Coos who had 4. Many others had two or three apiece

The report of the committee concluded as follows

We your committee on credentials respectfully report that in the county of Umatilla we find two sets of delegates elected to this convention, and after hearing the statements of each party, we recommend that A W Nye and M H. Abbott from said county cast one vote each and that J H. Turner and B B Bishop cast one vote each, and that S Norris and W Trevitt who have proxies from said county cast one vote each

In Grant county we find there was no convention but that the county central committee appointed delegates as reported.

That Josephine Curry and Washington are unrepresented as also is Tillamook

We find Jackson county is called for ten delegates but only entitled to nine on account of giving Lake one.

That Lake county has elected four but is only entitled to two

Turner of Umatilla moved the adoption of the report of the committee

Myers of Clackamas moved to amend the report of the committee by striking the names of Turner and Bishop of Umatilla county from the report and said he did not want men sitting as delegates who worked and voted against the Democratic ticket no longer ago than the last election

Turner replied in a brief speech saying in substance that he was a better Democrat than Mr Myers or any of his kind, that he voted the State ticket straight last year but voted for some men on the Independent county ticket that the opposition came from Nye who was beaten for sheriff and Myers whose brother was beaten for something else in Umatilla county that his record as a Democrat could be produced. Mart Brown who crossed the plains with him, and the people of Polk county knew his standing in the party that when the war broke out such men as Nye stuck their tails between their legs and scooted for Oregon while he shouldered his rifle went into the Confederate army and fought till 1865 and now Nye would seek to establish a standard by which his Democracy was to be judged neither he nor the Democracy of old Umatilla would stand it to have their political standing measured by Nye s half bushel

This speech brought down the house and excited more enthusiasm than anything else that occurred in the convention and when Mr Nye arose to answer it it was plain to be seen that Turner had the best of it

Nye charged Turner with disloyalty to the party and said he was glad the people of Polk county did know Turner and that when the Democracy of beautiful Umatilla had to be represented by such men as Jim Turner and old Sam Johnson [Mc Trevitt had Johnson s proxy—Rep] he (Nye) wanted to emigrate to desolate regions of Africa or the barren wastes of the grasshopper country. His speech was slightly applauded

The motion to strike out the names of Turner and Bishop was laid on the table, and the report of the committee was adopted, and the

CONVENTION GOT TO WORK

The temporary officers having been elected permanent officers of the convention a committee of three on order of business and a committee on platform consisting of one from each county was appointed. The latter committee was composed of Palmer of Benton Ison of Baker Jackson of Columbia Hobson of Clatsop Hazzard of Coos Noltner of Clackamas Crossen of Grant Foudray of Jackson Cowan of Linn Thompson of Lane McCane of Marion Trimble of Multnomah, Burch of Polk Abbott of Umatilla Gates of Wasco Newby of Yamhill

The committee to draft suitable memorial resolutions on the death of Hon George A LaDow was also appointed consisting of Turner Cronin, Thompson of Lane, Myers of Clackamas and Foudray

Here the convention took a recess until 7 o clock in the evening

At that hour the committee on platform asked for more time, and stated that two hours would be required

The committee on order of business reported a brief programme which was adopted.

IN MEMORIAM

The committee to draft resolutions of respect to the memory of late congressman elect, G A. LaDow, submitted the following, which was adopted

Whereas It having pleased Almighty God to remove from our midst Hon George A LaDow member of congress elect from the State of Oregon, and

Whereas We in convention assembled acknowledge the power of Him who doeth all things well bow in humble submission to his will therefore

Resolved That in the death of Hon Geo A LaDow the State of Oregon has lost a valuable citizen an honorable gentleman and one justly entitled to the confidence of his constituents.

Newby of Yamhill, moved that a copy of the foregoing resolutions be tendered the family of deceased, which was carried and the convention took a recess to wait for the

PLATFORM

The convention again met at 9 o clock and the committee on platform came in and reported the following which was read, and adopted without comment or dissent

The Democratic party of Oregon in State Convention assembled proclaim the following propositions of political faith and action

1 Unfaltering devotion to the cardinal principles of Republican government as declared and put into practical operation by the Fathers of the Republic

2 The preservation of the general government in the proper exercise of the powers delegated to it in the Constitution carefully and strictly construed, and the maintenance, inviolate of the several States of the Union in all their rights dignity and equality as the most competent and reliable administration of their own domestic concerns and the surest bulwark against the tendency toward a centralized despotism

3 Opposition to aggressions by either department of the government, upon the formation of the and to the exercise of federal authority of any of the rights or powers assured by the constitution to the States respectively or to the people.

4 That every attempt on the part of the Federal government to exercise any powers not delegated to it, and especially every interference by the government or any of its departments with the local affairs of any State or with the rights of the people thereof to choose their own representatives is an act of usurpation which should be repudiated and condemned by every friend of constitutional liberty.

5 We demand retrenchment reform and the most rigid economy in the administration of every department of the government the honest payment of the debts the sacred preservation of the public faith, strict accountability of all officers, and the speedy and impartial arraignment of all abuses of public trust before the tribunals of justice a zealous care of the rights of election by the people the absolute subordination of the military to the civil authority. The equal and impartial administration of the laws, and the protection of the rights of all freedom of religions of the press and of the person, under protection of the habeas corpus, and trial by juries impartially selected.

6 We protest against the burdens of a protective tariff as needless exactions from a people already intolerably oppressed by a national debt, and we insist that the tariff be so regulated as to provide only sufficient revenue for an economical administration of the government and not for the purpose of enriching the few at the expense of the many, or fostering one branch of industry to the detriment of another

7 That the precious metals are the only basis of commercial values that an irredeemable paper currency is a national curse, and we insist upon the speedy return by the national government to specie payments.

8 The institution of the system of national banks was a fraud upon the country and an injustice upon the laboring classes and we demand such prudent legislation as will gradually bring this vicious system to a close that all currency which may be issued shall be convertible into coin upon demand and be issued directly by the government.

9 That the treaty between the United States and China shall be so modified as to apply solely to commercial relations.

10 That we condemn the party in power, not only for its contempt of constitutional obligations, but for extravagant, partisan and corrupt administration of the federal government for its reckless expenditure and profligate waste of the people s money for its oppressive unjust and defective system of finance and taxation for the perversion of the functions of the general government to enrich the great corporations at the expense of the people for the jobbery and frauds which have brought reproach upon democratic institutions for the iniquities of the protective system for the curse of an inconvertible paper money for its disgraceful diplomatic service and unfit appointments and continuance in office of incompetent and corrupt men at home and abroad for its attempt to pass an unconstitutional force bill, and for a catalogue of other enormities which have rendered that organization offensive to and subversive of the liberties of a free people.

11 That corporations are the creatures of law their functions and privileges are granted to subserve the public interests, and when they are not used for the object of their creation, but for purposes of oppression and extortion, we declare it to be the right and duty of the legislative power to regulate and control such corporations for the public good.

12 That we disapprove all measures in the interest of monopolies against labor and therefore we approve of the declared principles and sympathize with the avowed objects of the order known as the Patrons of Husbandry and with those of all other orders having for their object retrenchment and reform in public affairs and the social advancement of the people.

13 That we are in favor of laboring to secure judicious appropriations from congress for the purpose of improving our harbors along the western and northern boundaries of our State and we demand that our representatives in congress shall use their best efforts to secure the aid of the general government for the free navigation and improvement of the Columbia river by the construction of locks at the Cascades the improvement of the Wallamet and Coquille rivers the construction of the Portland Dalles and Salt Lake and Winnemucca Railroads and the early completion of the Oregon and California Railroad from Roseburg to the State line

14 That the policy of the Republican party in dealing with the Indian tribes is impolitic and unwise that the time has arrived when the few Indians now occupying the Umatilla, Grand Ronde and Siletz reservations should be removed to some other locality, and thus open up to settlement by the whites some of the richest portions of the State.

15 That we invite the hearty co-operation of all persons whatever may have been their past political affinities to unite with us in carrying out the the principles herein enunciated

A motion was made that the several candidates for the nomination be requested to express their views on the platform but the convention was too eager to get to balloting, and the motion was lost.

MAKING THE NOMINATION

The number of votes under the call was 121 but the actual number in the convention was only 110, the four counties of Josephine, Curry Tillamook and Washington appearing to have concluded to take no stock in the affair. The number of votes required to nominate was announced to be 56—a majority of the delegates and proxies—and without further ceremony except voting down a motion to adjourn till morning the convention proceeded to the nomination of a candidate for congress. Names were presented as follows

L F Lane by Van Cleave, of Multnomah, John Whiteaker, by McClane, of Marion, J H Reed, by Copeland, of Columbia J W Nesmith by Holmes of Polk, Ben Hayden, by Myers of Polk Geo K Sheil, by Murphy, of Marion, W W Page, by Cronin, of Multnomah, and J H Slater by some member from Eastern Oregon

Myers of Polk, presented the following letter, which was read

Dixie, July 27 1875

Hon J H Myers My Dear Sir I am confined to my rooms with severe indisposition and shall not be able to attend the State convention. I write this to say that I cannot be a candidate for congress under any circumstances, and if nominated should be compelled to decline that honor. If my name should be mentioned in that connection I would regard it as a favor if you will cause this note to be read in the convention. Truly yours,

J W NESMITH.

Mr Holmes withdrew the name of Mr Nesmith, and Mr Newby presented it again. The names of Slater and Page were also withdrawn and the voting began viva voce. Seven ballots were taken, as reported by telegraph, without the choice being made. The name of Nesmith was withdrawn after the sixth ballot. After each ballot, including the sixth a motion to adjourn was made and voted down by acclamation. After the seventh ballot at being 20 minutes to midnight, a motion to adjourn was made, and the ayes and noes being called, the convention decided to adjourn until 8 o'clock this morning, leaving the candidates on the rack of suspense for eight mortal hours longer

After the adjournment Ben Hayden was called on for a speech. He made the attempt and for a wonder failed. J H Reed having been flattered by the reception of 32 votes was called out and made a very neat little speech after which the lights were put out in the hall, and the delegates dispersed but

NOT TO REST

All night long the friends of the several candidates were laboring each to convince the other that his particular man was the man who could poll more votes, more ably represent the State and do more for the people than any one else in the State of Oregon. The friends of

LAFAYETTE LANE,

Of Douglas county whose name we do not find in the American Encyclopedia and whose biography we cannot therefore write, were those on whose banner victory perched, for on the reassembling of the convention this morning the names of Whiteaker and Hayden were withdrawn, leaving only Lane and Reed in the field, and on the first ballot the vote stood Lane 88 Reed 17 and Whiteaker 2, three delegates not present. So Mr Lane was declared the nominee, and on motion his nomination was made unanimous

Ex Gov Curry was elected a member of the Democratic State Central Committee from Multnomah vice E. Semple, removed from the county

A motion to fix the place of meeting of the next State Convention was indefinitely postponed.

Short very short speeches were made by Messrs Whiteaker Slater and Mart Brown and Gov Grover, and the least enthusiastic Democratic State Convention ever held in Oregon was over, and without a motion to adjourn, without a single cheer for the ticket or platform, the assemblage went out, leaving the hall deserted.

Salem is not in raptures, we think, with the nomination, the man does not suit the Democrats, and the Independents and Republicans take no stock in the concern.

The Daily Oregonian.

SATURDAY MORNING, JULY 31, 1875.

THE DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATE.

The nomination of Lafayette Lane as the Democratic candidate for congress, had been considered as a probable event for some time, and yet its announcement takes many by surprise. It excites no enthusiasm, however, in any quarter. Even at the convention there was no heart in it, save among a very small number who had labored to bring it about, and these were rejoiced at the present triumph over their opponents in the party, rather than at the prospect of a victory at the polls.

Mr. Lane is a son of General Joseph Lane, and a young man of amiable and companionable disposition, but of no extraordinary ability or culture. He makes few enemies, and many friends, but we dare say among his friends will be found a large proportion who will not consider him just the person to represent Oregon in congress. It was not, however, his abilities, nor his facility for making friends, that secured him the nomination. He was nominated because he was the son of his father, a consideration which will both gain and lose votes for him.

We desire to say nothing unpleasant of Mr. Lane, for in a limited acquaintance with him we have found him an agreeable and courteous gentleman; but he is certainly rather-light metal for a congressman, and we cannot but believe his nomination will prove unfortunate for the party. He is not the man for the times. The public mind has expected something different, and will not be inclined to accept the disappointment without a murmur. The eyes of intelligent people will be turned now to the Independent convention; and if that body shall do no better than the Democratic has done, they will then turn to the straight-out Republicans, in hopes that good may come out of Nazareth.

THE MISSING MAIL POUCH.

The statement in Mr. District Attorney Mallory's letter published this morning, that we were called before the U. S. grand jury during the investigation of the loss of the mail pouch and valuables, is incorrect. We were never called before that body. Of course, not being before the grand jury, we could never have made the statements attributed to us.

It is generally known that a mail pouch containing a large amount of treasure has been stolen somewhere and by somebody, but nobody seems to have a very definite idea when or by whom. The pouch is traced by record evidence to the Portland postoffice, but no further. The statement of the Evening Journal that it had been delivered to the mail agent on the O. & C. railway is founded wholly on conjecture. The pouch may have left the Portland office or it may not. There is not an iota of evidence on the subject, one way or the other. At the time the pouch was lost, the postmaster was not required to take a receipt from the carrier for such matter. From the time it left his hands till he received the receipt of the postmaster at the next distributing office, or at the office of destination, he had no written evidence whatever of its having been forwarded by him. In this case the bag was destined for Sacramento, and the Portland postmaster, after sending his own receipt for the package, back to the Dalles, would, in the regular way, be without protection against the possibility of being charged with the loss. This is an awkward situation, and one which might do an innocent man great injustice. But that is one of the inconveniences of Postmaster Cole's position in this case, and the fact that he might be unjustly suspected is no reason why the whole burden of the loss should be carried over to the next man in order, who is liable to exactly the same injustice. So far as the evidence in the case throws any light on the subject, it only appears that the pouch came to Portland all right, and at Portland, or somewhere between Portland and Sacramento, or at Sacramento, was stolen. There are more than twenty men to divide the responsibility and share the suspicions. And, at last, the truth may be that the loss occurred through the neglect, but not through the crime, of anybody connected with the mail service. The real thief may be an outside party. This is improbable but not impossible.

There has been no thorough investigation of the matter. That cannot be denied. And we see no reason now to suppose a thorough and well organized investigation would not result in detecting the guilty party. But until that is done, it is but just to refrain from comments tending to fix public suspicion upon any particular person.

A THIN CONVENTION.

Some days since we predicted that the Independent and Republican conventions would have a very meagre attendance, owing to the fact that they will come right in the busiest time of the harvest. We supposed there would be a better showing at the Democratic convention, as that came between haying time and the grain harvest. But in that we were incorrect. The Democratic convention was largely a convention of proxies, and four counties were entirely unrepresented. In another county no convention had been held, and the county committee took it on themselves to name delegates to the State convention; and then these did not appear, but were all represented by proxies in the hands of a gentleman living in another county.

A SUSPICIOUS TRANSACTION.

In the New York Herald, of July 13th, appeared the following dispatch:

KANSAS CITY, MO., July 17.—The Times will publish to-morrow an editorial relating to alleged recent developments in the Dives and Pelican mines, of Colorado, which reflect rather severely on the administration. It seems that after the decision of Judge Belford, enjoining Dives' mine, McMurdy, a leading spirit in the mine, boasts that he had determined that Belford should be compelled to vacate at once. McMurdy, it is said, then introduced the Hon. John A. Logan, who purchased the interest of the mine, and induced Mr. Honore, of Chicago, the father-in-law of Mr. Fred. Grant, to trade some of his real estate for stock. No sooner was this effected than Judge Belford, who was believed to be in the interest of the Pelican mine, was removed by the President, and Judge Stone appointed. The owners of the Pelican mine declare that the case shall never be tried by Judge Stone.

Nothing has ever been said about President Grant presenting him in a more unfavorable light than this. His connection with the political and financial rings that have filled and polluted the Republican party during the last two or three years has been rather in the character of politician than otherwise, no person, so far as we are aware, having charged that anything he has done has been done simply for the sordid purpose of bringing pecuniary gain to his family. But this statement, certainly charges by unmistakable implication, that the appointing power over the judiciary of the Territories, is prostituted to the purpose of making profit for the family of the President, through the corruption of the courts.

The liberality of some politicians is astounding. An instance of that occurred in the Democratic State Convention, when Mr. Myers moved to expel a member from Umatilla because he voted the Independent county ticket last year. It was not enough that he had voted the Democratic State ticket. Nor was it a matter of any moment that the Democrats of his county had seen fit to accredit him as their representative in the convention.

FROM SPECIAL AGENT UNDERWOOD.

IN RELATION TO THE LOST MAIL SACK—THE COURSE OF INVESTIGATION PURSUED—EXCULPATION OF THOMAS H. COX, J. A.

To the Editor of the Oregonian:

Inasmuch as there has been so much said in a certain newspaper published in the city of Portland in reference to the loss of a certain mail pouch between Portland and Sacramento, I will simply state that on the 20th day of October last a certain pouch should have left, and as I believe, did leave, the Portland postoffice, under brass lock, tagged for Sacramento, California. That said pouch contained about one hundred and sixty-six ounces of gold dust, or gold bars, from Canyon City and Prairie City, in Grant county, together with seven other packages of nominal value. That said pouch failed to reach the Sacramento postoffice, as I was informed by the postmaster.

At the time the loss occurred I was absent at Baker City on official business, but on learning of the loss I immediately returned and took steps to ascertain where the loss occurred, and to bring the guilty parties to justice; and from that day till this I have spared no time, labor or expense in order to ferret out and detect where the loss occurred, and who committed the robbery. To my assistance I called a great many men whose names I am not at liberty to make known, and in fact just what I have done, or how I have done it, or with what degree of success my efforts have been attended, I cannot at this time make public. But this much I desire to state, that everything that could be done, not only by myself, but other officers of the government, also by other parties employed especially to work this matter up, has been done.

I trust that a discriminating and considerate public will fully understand what folly it would be in me to make known through the public press or otherwise just what I was doing from day to day, what parties were suspected, what efforts were being made for their detection, what parties were working up the particular facts connected with each and every circumstance bearing upon the case, or what facts I have already obtained in the matter.

However much I might desire to satisfy the public mind, and save myself and others connected with me from unjust and cruel criticism, yet my obligations to the department having this matter in charge, and of which I am special agent, are such that I cannot say more than I have already said, and must be content to rest under the unfair and uncharitable attacks of an irresponsible sheet until the mystery surrounding this matter is unveiled, and had not others than myself been attacked I should have said nothing. In justice to Mr. Cox, I desire to say that his conduct was put under the strictest scrutiny, not only by myself, but by others, before even he or the other route agents knew of the loss, and for a long time after agents of the government and detectives, thoroughly, and "without fear, favor or hope of reward," investigated each and every circumstance that could even place a suspicion of the robbery having been done by him, and in all this Mr. Cox came out without even the taint of suspicion upon his official conduct. And I desire to state further that the statement made by the Evening Journal that I said the sack had been traced to Mr. Cox's hands is absolutely false.

CITY.

HORSE-RACING—REPREHENSIBLE CONDUCT.—A gentleman who resides in the northern portion of the city gives us the following particulars of the very reprehensible conduct of two persons last evening: Two young gentlemen who are connected with the headquarters of the department of the Columbia, in the capacity of clerks, hired a couple of horses yesterday evening for the purpose of taking a ride. After riding about the city some time, the young men concluded to try the speed of their respective steeds down G street. No sooner was the gauntlet thrown down than it was promptly accepted, and a race decided upon. Starting from a point near the end of the street, these young men came tearing down G street under full tilt. Just as they reached West Park street, one of the horses stepped into a hole where a short piece of plank had been slipped out. In an instant the horse was thrown violently to the ground, and the rider pitched headlong about fifteen feet in advance, striking on his side and sliding several yards. The horse which was immediately behind, and closely pressing its rival, jumped clear over the prostrate animal and rider, or else fatal results have followed. Persons residing in the vicinity, who heard the clatter of the animal's feet and, supposing it was a runaway, came running toward the street. They just reached the street in time to witness the accident. Several persons ran to the place, thinking, very naturally, that the young man was seriously injured, if not killed outright; but found to their agreeable surprise that he had escaped with but slight injuries. However, the animal was badly hurt, and, when led away, seemed to be suffering great pain. Of course, the result can not be known at present. It seems almost miraculous that the rider escaped with his life. Those who witnessed the accident expressed no sympathy except for the poor horse. We can only characterize such accidents as highly reprehensible, and richly deserving of the strongest condemnation. Horse racing may be an innocent amusement when carried on outside of the city limits, but when indulged in along one of the thoroughfares, it should be discountenanced; and those who participate in such dangerous pastime should be subjected to a heavy fine. Those who reside along G street complain that a number of persons are in the habit of using that thoroughfare as a race course, and very properly consider it is high time that the sport be discontinued.

REV. DR. THOS. H. PEARNE.—In speaking of this well known divine, an exchange says: "The traces of this gentleman are to be seen curiously. Recently, he attended a camp-meeting at Round lake, in the State of New York, some twelve miles from the Saratoga Springs. Whilst there it is said that he preached on the 'immutability of the promise of God.' The sweeping fires of the doctor's eloquence so fused the hearts of the audience that they remained until long after the usual hour of closing, making the woods ring with songs of praise. The doctor was the first editor of the P. C. Advocate, during which time his able pen wielded great power in the building up of this country. He was forcible in his style, an eloquent speaker, one that dared to do and every way just the man for any part of the world, and especially for a new country. He spent about sixteen years, the prime of his life on this coast, leaving his footprints in all directions, in this town as well as elsewhere. As we all know him well, at least most of us, we need say but little in regard to his real worth as an editor or as a citizen. A few years ago he left Oregon, and took work in the State of Tennessee as presiding elder. Some years afterward he was appointed by the President American consul on the island of Jamaica, in the West Indies. Recently he returned to the United States, and is now stationed in Dayton, Ohio."

INSANE MAN.—Yesterday evening a German, named Fritz Kniver, was arrested and placed in jail, who, for several days, has been conducting himself in a strange manner. He seems to be laboring under the singular hallucination that he is engaged to marry several women at the same time. He was around yesterday inviting a number of persons to attend his wedding, which he declared was to take place last evening. He had a gold ring, which he was exhibiting to a number of people, and declared, very excitedly, that it belonged to his imaginary bride. At length he acted so wildly that there could no longer remain any doubt as to Kniver's insanity, and it was thought best to place him in custody until the question could be settled before the competent authorities. To-day Kniver will be examined before Judge Woodward.

SURPRISE PARTY.—Last Thursday evening a party of twenty-eight or thirty young ladies and gentlemen took possession of the parlor of the Portland hotel and gave to Master Thos. P. Norton a surprise party in honor of his sixteenth birthday. The evening passed off pleasantly, being interspersed with games, and music, both instrumental and vocal, after which they repaired to supper, which was relished by all. Soon after they returned home, being pleased with the evening's entertainment which will not soon be forgotten.

THE SHOOTING MATCH.—This afternoon the pigeon shooting match which will come off at the White House, promises to be an interesting and exciting affair. It will doubtless be largely attended. The birds are to be sprung from a cone trap, prepared especially for the occasion, and sportsmen while furnishing 1¼ ounces of shot, will be supplied with all the powder necessary. Every man is expected to retrieve his own bird.

AN INDIAN DRUNK.—An Indian—name unknown—who hails from Oregon City, was arrested yesterday evening in an intoxicated condition, wandering about the streets. In one pocket was found a bottle partially filled with "fire water." Where the old siwash obtained his liquor is a mystery to the officers. "Lo" is in jail and will probably be called upon this morning to answer the charge of inebriety.

ELECTION.—The semi-annual election of officers of the Independent Order of Jolly Companions took place last evening at their hall. The following persons were elected: Geo. C. Sears, C. C.; W. F. Dillon, S. C.; I. Hucy, I. C.; H. Talbott, Scribe; A. G. Walling, Banker; L. F. A. Shaw, N. G. H.; W. S. Stevens, L. L.; J. B. Kellogg, G. O.; Jno. A. Crouet, G. F.; A. P. Delin, D. O.; L. Varwig, Warden.

FOR OYSTERVILLE.—We understand that the steamer Gussie Telfair will leave this city next week with a select party of Portlanders for Shoalwater bay. The steamer will go over in time to allow the excursionists an opportunity of witnessing the regatta, which will come off there on the 4th of August, and then return. The party will be absent three days.

WEATHER REPORT.—From the records of the U. S. Signal Station of Observation, Portland, Oregon, July 30, 1875:

TO THE PENITENTIARY.—The express train on Thursday evening carried to Salem John Jackson, who was lately convicted of selling whisky to Indians in the U. S. district court, and sentenced to one year's imprisonment in the penitentiary. U. S. Marshal Malarky escorted the prisoner to his future place of abode.

KEEPING UP THE LINE.—Every possible effort is being made by the W. U. T. Co. to keep the line in working order beyond Tacoma. A number of men are constantly employed in watching the line and raising the wire as fast as the heavy fires prostrate it. The line was working through for some time yesterday.

COMING TO PORTLAND.—Says the Albany Democrat: "There will be about 200 persons take part in the excursion to Portland next Tuesday. All the firemen and a great many of their friends intend going. The price has been put down to $4, so that everybody can attend."

FREE THINKERS.—We are requested to state that there will be a meeting of all persons of liberal views at Turn Verein Hall to-morrow evening at 2 o'clock. All free-thinkers are invited, and as business of importance will be on the tapis, a large attendance is desirable.

A meeting, especially for young people, will be held at the Methodist church Sunday, at 10 o'clock. There will be instrumental and vocal music, and the meeting will be addressed by different ministers.

The steam ferry at Vancouver bids fair to revolutionize the route travel between Portland and Vancouver, as it is only six miles across the isthmus from East Portland, and is now connected by a stage-wagon which makes two round trips a day, at a cost of fifty cents each way, going through in an hour.

THE LOST MAIL SACK.

DETAILED STATEMENT FROM DISTRICT ATTORNEY MALLORY—CIRCUMSTANCES OF ITS DISAPPEARANCE AND EFFORTS FOR ITS RECOVERY—INVESTIGATION BY THE GRAND JURY AND ITS RESULTS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

The Daily Evening Journal, published in this city, contained an editorial article in its issue of the 23d of July under the heading, "Uncovering Postal Agency Mysteries," in which Deputy Postal Agent Thos. H. Cox is charged with the commission of a high crime against the laws of the United States, and Postal Agent J. B. Underwood is accused with having used his official position to shield and protect Mr. Cox, while I am charged with having corruptly neglected to prosecute this alleged offender on account of my partisan relations with him and Mr. Underwood. Subsequent issues of that paper have contained repetitions of these charges against myself, which are so grossly unjust and untruthful that I can scarcely do less, in justice to myself, than to state the facts in the matter, so far as I know them, and leave the public to judge whether this sheet has been prompted to this course by a sense of justice, or whether, feeling safe in the abundance of its irresponsibility, it has made this circumstance the occasion to establish itself as the organ of libels and black-mail, the only front rank in journalism to which it can aspire.

In the fall of 1874, whether in the latter part of October or fore part of November, I am not able to say, Deputy Special Postal Agent Dexter informed me that a mail sack containing registered mail matter of the value of $2,500 or $3,000, as was said, had been stolen from the mail at some point between Portland and Sacramento; that he had been searching for it for several days, but had not succeeded in finding either the thief, the sack or the money. At the time the sack was first missed, as I was informed by Mr. Dexter, Special Agent Underwood was east of the mountains and knew nothing of what Dexter had done in looking the matter up. I learned from Mr. Dexter that the sack of registered matter was made up at the Portland office from packages that were put in the office here and others that came to the Portland office on their way to Sacramento and San Francisco, and that he could find no other proof that the sack had left this office than that its absence had never been noticed by the persons whose business it was to handle the mail; that such a sack went with every mail; and its absence at any time would be much more likely to attract attention than its presence. I was also informed by him that certain parties south of Roseburg were suspected of the robbery, and that the search was being carefully made by the postal officers in California, and that I would be informed of the result of the search as soon as he heard it.

On Mr. Underwood's return from east of the mountains, he came to my office and conferred with me about it, and said that the parties suspected, and referred to by Mr. Dexter, had accounted for their conduct, and it was conceded that they were not guilty. It was ascertained that Mr. Thomas H. Cox, who was at that time route agent on the road from Portland to Roseburg, went to Roseburg on the 20th of October, the day the sack in question should have gone, but there was no other evidence that the sack went on that day, except that neither he nor any other person whose business it was to handle the sack had missed it.

In the meantime, B. Killin, Esq., an attorney of this city, had been employed by one of the parties whose money was in the sack and was lost, to look the matter up, and if possible recover it. Mr. Killin came to me and consulted with me as to what ought to be done to find out the thief, punish him, and recover the money. But at no time did Mr. Killin intimate even a suspicion of Mr. Cox, or of any one else, nor did he ever intimate to me that there was evidence to justify the arrest of anybody. It was agreed between us, as a result of his suggestion, that the best way to proceed in the matter would be to ask for the appointment, by the postoffice department, of a detective who was unknown here, to come and ferret the matter out. He thought that such a person might find both the thief and the money, when a person who was known could find neither.

In compliance with this request, I addressed a letter to the postmaster general on the 20th day of January, 1875, requesting that a skillful detective be sent here to look this matter up, and gave as a reason that, in my judgment, the agent here being well known, the guilty parties would be always on the lookout for him. This letter was written without the knowledge of Mr. Underwood, or of any one else, except myself and Mr. Killin. Not very long afterwards I was informed by Mr. Killin that such a detective had been appointed and was on his way here. I knew nothing of his having been here, until within a week past I have been informed that he was here and prosecuted his researches for a month or more with great secresy, and very thoroughly, and was unable to find any facts tending to establish the guilt of anybody!

When the grand jury was in session at the March term, 1875, of the United States district court, after consulting with Mr. Killin as to what was best to do in the case, I called before the grand jury every witness that either Mr. Killin or myself thought might reveal any fact that would throw light upon the subject, but nothing whatever could be elicited. I had frequent conversations with Mr. Killin, but we never were able to get facts enough together to warrant any specific charge against anybody. He was anxious to recover the money for his client, and I was then, and always have been, willing to aid him in that object, and have done everything in my power to bring the offender to justice.

The efforts of detectives had brought to light no new facts when the grand jury of the United States District Court for the July term, 1875, met on the 20th day of July. Most of the members of the grand jury were farmers, and were anxious to get the business disposed of as soon as possible, that they might get back to their homes. The business was nearly completed when they adjourned, on the 23d, and they expected to be discharged early on the 24th, that they might get to their homes on Saturday. In the evening of the 23d, and after the grand jury had adjourned for the day, the newspaper containing the article to which reference was made in the beginning of this card, appeared. Postal Agent Underwood addressed a note to me through the Bulletin and OREGONIAN, asking that the matter charged against Mr. Cox and himself be fully investigated by the grand jury. In compliance with that request I called before the grand jury the witnesses named in the article, except E. D. Thorne, who was not in the city, who, as the article puts it, "can furnish considerable testimony themselves of Underwood's and Cox's alleged official delinquencies, and furnish a clue to other testimony;" and after a full and searching examination, the persons named could neither give one word of testimony against Cox or Underwood, or anybody else, or "furnish a clue to other testimony."

William Pickett and J. W. Kelly, as well as A. Bushwiler and B. Killin, were also called by myself. Neither Pickett nor Kelly stated a single fact tending to implicate any of the parties they had charged in their newspaper, and persons whose names they gave as the source of their authority testified that they knew neither Pickett nor Kelly, and never had one syllable of conversation with either of them on the subject. Mr. Kelly gave the names of John Mendenhall, Mr. Payne, H. L. Pittock, W. Lair Hill and J. H. Mitchell, in addition to those already named, who could furnish proof of the truth of the charge in the newspaper. These persons I called before the grand jury as soon as it was possible to reach them. But the examination of every witness took time. The grand jury were anxious to leave for home, but when their attention was called to this case in the morning, the charge was of so serious character they would have continued their investigation for another week, or even longer, I have no doubt, if there had been any evidence that furnished so much as a suspicion that they could find the criminal by following it up. But there was not a witness that came before the grand jury who testified to any fact pertinent to the case, except the naked fact that the mail sack had been lost. The investigation was continued by this grand jury from 10 o'clock until half-past 1, taking no recess at noon. Having pursued the investigation three hours and a half, and examined thoroughly the witnesses whom the parties making the charge said "could furnish considerable testimony themselves," "and furnish a clue to other testimony," and finding not one syllable in support of the charge, were unwilling to spend the time, or put the government to the expense of pursuing the investigation further, sent for the court and asked to be discharged, which was accordingly done.

The opinion of the grand jury of the case made by the parties who charge such high crimes upon Cox, Underwood and myself, is sufficiently expressed in the card published by the foreman of the grand jury, in the two morning papers, on the 27th inst. The same paper in a later issue, charges that all the witnesses named by Kelly were not called before the grand jury: that those who knew most about the case were not called. The witnesses named by Mr. Kelly who were not before the grand jury were W. Lair Hill, Mr. Paine, John Mendenhall and J. H. Mitchell. From the time the grand jury met at 10 o'clock, until half-past 1, they were constantly engaged in examining witnesses, and they continued their examination to the last minute before they were discharged. Any witnesses named who were not before the grand jury were not there because there was not time to get them there. John Mendenhall is one of the witnesses who it is pretended can give important testimony in the case. He was subpenaed to appear, but the grand jury had been discharged before he arrived. I talked with him on the subject, and he authorized me to say that he never knew one word even of the loss of the sack until he saw the statement about it in the newspaper article referred to; and that he had so informed Mr. Kelly; that he knew nothing that would implicate Cox, Underwood, or anybody else. Mr. Payne, Mr. Hill and Mr. Mitchell all disclaim any knowledge of the matter whatever. The testimony of the parties who make these charges, as well as of the witnesses they have called upon to establish them, proves to every fair minded man that they are not only unkind, unjust and untrue, but that they are malicious, outrageously false and libellous.

RUFUS MALLORY,
U. S District Attorney, Oregon.
PORTLAND, Oregon, July 29, 1875.

Take your Saturday lunch at Fabre & Barnes' Central Market.

TO-NIGHT, the Alleghanians, vocalists, Swiss bell-ringers, &c., will appear in a change of programme.

Mr. Benjamin will produce new airs upon his novel invention—the musical glasses or crystal chimes—every one should hear him.

Genuine imported Vichy water and the delicious creme Point soda water can only be had at Pfunder's German pharmacy, New Theatre block.

No more need of having your collars washed, when you can wear Elmwoods and Warwicks that are for sale everywhere.

CHROMOS FOR ALL.—An extensive stock of chromos has been opened in the store adjoining the postoffice by Mr. E. W. Ryan. These chromos were selected personally during a recent visit in the east, and will be offered at low prices. Call and examine.

Marie Packard and Miss Durgin in new charming duets and songs to-night. The Alleghanians in a choice programme.

KOHN is making quite an attractive display in his new Store, corner of First and Morrison streets. The new goods have arrived and his customers, new and old, may find some really handsome styles for summer wear. In Furnishing Goods he can accommodate the most fastidious. He knows the wants of the people, and now none need complain about the scarcity of styles and the quality of the fabrics offered. The prices are regulated according to the times.

Do not miss the Alleghanians' concert to-night at the New Market Theater. A rich musical treat for every one.

For the Summer and Fall season some new and appropriate styles in clothing have been introduced. The large and varied stock at BECK & WALDMAN'S is worthy of inspection by all intending to buy something unusually new and attractive. Their late arrivals of Furnishing Goods are also very fine and must meet with great favor. This firm continue to offer special inducements in youths' clothing. In every respect their stock is complete.

Hear the musical glasses, the silver Swiss bells, the ladies' and gents' orchestral band, and the Alleghanians' quartettes to-night.

COLD LUNCHES.—The oyster season having closed, WALLER & SON, Oak street, between First and Second, will serve Rare Lunches to their patrons at all hours. The OXFORD SALAD DRESSING, their own preparation, is meeting with great favor. Try it.

LACES! LACES!
Having perfected arrangements with an acquaintance in London I am enabled to offer Laces at lower figures than they can be purchased elsewhere in the city. I have these goods in SHAWLS, HANDKERCHIEFS, SACKS, DRESS TRIMMINGS, and by the yard. The ladies are invited to call. Satisfaction guaranteed.

Neglect everything, or anything except a cough or cold. A year's suffering, and too often death itself, may be the result of one day's inattention to troubles of the throat or lungs. Don't Make War on the Stomach.
If you are bilious, dyspeptic and constipated, don't make war on the stomach by successively swallowing blue pills, strong purgatives and powerful astringents. Such a procedure damages digestion and weakens the bowels, leaving stomach, liver and intestines, after the immediate effect, in a condition of greater disorder than before. That complete relief which remedies of the above description signally fail to afford is obtained by using Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. And for the best of reasons. Biliousness is the result of inactivity of the liver, dyspepsia of weakness of the digestive organs, and constipation is produced by the above causes operating together. The Bitters, being a powerful stomachic, overcome indigestion by stimulating the secretion of gastric juice, relieve biliousness by promoting greater activity of the liver, and thus enable the bowels to act with renewed regularity.

SATURDAY MORNING, JULY 31, 1875.

KISSING.

There is something in a kiss
Though I cannot reveal it,
Which never comes amiss—
Not even when I steal it.
We cannot taste a kiss,
And sure we cannot view it,
But is there not a bliss
Communicated through it?
I am well convinced there is
A certain something in it,
For, though a simple kiss,
We wisely strive to win it.
Yes, there's something in a kiss—
If nothing else would prove it,
It might be proved by this:
That all good people love it.

DRATSUM.

JUNCTION, July 26, 1875.

CHASED—A FRONTIER STORY OF TO-DAY.

"Everybody ought to know it's the hoppers that's to blame, and not Johnnie and me. We never begged before sir, and please God, we never will again."

The Relief Commissioner looked kindly down into Bess Nelson's pleading face, and answered—

"Bless you, sis! there isn't the shadow of an apology due. We're all alike in Kansas this year—prairie chickens, as it were, with our pinfeathers picked clean out; fighting our way through the coldest weather, too, that has been known for thirty years."

"Always bad luck in Kansas. I blame the day that I ever squatted on its onery soil," grumbled a settler, who stood behind Bess and Johnnie.

"Look here, sir," said Johnnie, turning upon them with disapproval. "Kansas isn't busted yet, not by a long way round. She's the best State in the Union, all things considered. I reckon if the grasshoppers had it down in the valley of the Connecticut, they'd have cleaned things out as neatly as they did here. The only difference, the people there'd have back crops to climb up on. We haven't; but we're going to have some time. Then we'll invite the hoppers down again, and tell 'em to pitch in and stuff themselves."

"That's the right kind of talk, my boy. Better days for suffering Kansas. We'll try her again next year for better luck," said a thinly-clad but noble-looking frontiersman, laying an approving hand on Johnnie's shoulder.

Johnnie and Bess Nelson had come up to Fort Dodge from their father's claim, fifteen miles away, to apply to the Relief Commissioner for supplies to carry to their destitute home. Shivering under their scanty garments, "with stomachs big as Mammoth Cave," all the afternoon they had waited for the train which was to bring the needed aid sent by the good people Eastward. About them stood a band of anxious, care-worn farmers, all having come upon the same pressing errand as Bess and Johnnie.

Late in the afternoon the train arrived. The winter twilight had almost set in ere Johnnie and Bess had received in full the liberal share of supplies alloted them. But a more jubilant boy and girl never started on a homeward trip. They had flour, hominy and ham, tea, coffee, sugar, and other articles of food; shoes for the little barefoot brothers and baby Bell, at home; woolen clothes, and even medicine for mother's chills and father's rheumatism.

Johnnie drove his own red mustang, Prancer, harnessed to a hickory jumper—a rude but serviceable affair, made by Mr. Nelson.

"Now, then, we must travel lively," said Johnnie, as they glided over the snowy prairie between Fort Dodge and Smoky Hill Timber. Fifteen miles home, and after sunset.

"Twould be no matter only that pa and ma are sick, and they are all so hungry at home," said Bess. "It's bright moonlight, and we have a big buffalo robe to keep us warm. I'm so glad the grasshoppers couldn't eat this up, anyhow."

Wrapping themselves snugly in the robe, Bess and Johnnie fell to eating eagerly the supper of crackers and dried beef they had spared themselves—small, indeed, because of the hungry loved ones waiting in the prairie cabin. When they had finished, Bess took a nap, while Johnnie whistled softly and made future plans, into which grasshoppers, drouth and chinch-bugs did not enter.

The road home led most of the way through Smoky Hill Timber. The trees were thick on either side, but the moon shone brightly overhead, and stars glimmered in the cold, clear sky.

In the loneliest part of the timber tired Bess awoke. Prancer had settled into a lagging gait.

"Poor little mustang! how weak he is!" said Bess, pityingly. "He's been so nearly starved all winter, I'm afraid the trip will use him up entirely."

"Hush Bess!" was Johnnie's only answer. He had thrown off the buffalo robe, and was sitting in an erect and listening attitude.

Bess pushed back her brown hood from her ears, and listened too.

"Johnnie," she said, at length, "I hear something howling behind us. Rover didn't go with us to Fort Dodge. Do you suppose there's a strange dog following us?"

Johnnie only listened more intently.

Bess gave Johnnie's hand a nervous clutch.

"It sounds nearer now, and there's a lot of 'em howling together," she said, in a low, frightened tone. "They say that wolves are unusually fierce this winter. Wolves sound some like dogs, don't they?"

Johnnie's answer was quick and resolute. "You can be a brave girl, Bess. The wolves are after us. Get down in front and hold the reins. Whip Prancer hard, if need be—into a dead run."

As Johnnie said, Bess could be a brave girl. She quickly saw the fearful danger that threatened. Slipping down in front, she seized the reins and cruel stick, with which to whip the tender little pony, whom she loved almost as well as Johnnie. Holding in his hand a loaded revolver, which he had brought along as a precaution, Johnnie turned his face towards the backward road.

At the first touch of the whip, to which he was so unused, Prancer leaped forward into a desperate run, but the terrible pursuers gained upon him rapidly. Soon a violent panting could be heard, and the leader of the pack appeared in sight. Nine wolves were closely following at his heels.

Almost in a twinkling the foremost wolf was tearing at the buffalo robe, one end of which had fallen from the sleigh behind. Johnnie fired upon him. With a howl of rage and pain the savage creature released his hold and fell backward in the snow. The scent of blood maddened the remainder of the pack. They paused in the pursuit to rush upon the wounded wolf, quarrelling ferociously as to which should taste the last drop of blood.

This gave Johnnie a temporary rest, although he knew the wolves would be after him again when they had finished tearing their leader in pieces. Prancer, with true animal instinct, felt his danger, and sped with almost supernatural strength along the frozen road. Bess, uttering no sound of the alarm that filled her heart, held tightly to the reins, and did not feel the cold that cut her hands and unprotected ears with cruel sharpness.

Again and again the wolves renewed the attack, and as often did brave Johnnie repeat his firing, killing or wounding one of the pursuers with nearly every shot. These were quickly torn in pieces, as the leader of the pack had been, thus making fortunate intervals in this horrible chase.

"Faster, Bess! faster! I've got to reload my pistol," exclaimed Johnnie, during one of these short intervals.

"Prancer's giving out. I'd rather die than whip him any more," cried Bess despairingly.

Johnnie's hands had become so stiff with cold that he could scarcely remove the cylinder of the pistol to reset the charges. If he should fail in that, one chance remained. The hams might serve for brief delays; but that would rob the hungry ones at home—almost as hungry as the wolves themselves, he thought with sudden pain.

He made a desperate effort, and reset the charge; but when he had replaced the cylinder, through some mismovement an accidental ball took flight and lodged in Johnnie's hand. With a loud click the pistol dropped into the snow beside the way, while the wounded [illegible] fell paralyzed.

[illegible] Prancer's reins, Bess threw her [illegible] about her brother, with a cry of terror. "[illegible] hold me! See, they're coming on again! [illegible] there's a hatchet in the bottom of the sleigh that [illegible] forgotten," said Johnnie with desperate [illegible].

He stooped and [illegible] seized the hatchet; but the hand that tried to [illegible] it fell as powerless as the wounded one, from which the blood was flowing fast.

"Bessie," he said, weakly, "I can't do any more. Throw out the hams, and then"—

Poor Johnnie fainted ere the sentence could be finished.

Brave little Bess! Her courage rose to meet the peril of that moment. The wolves were gathering hard upon her. She could almost feel the breath of one upon her face. Taking the hatchet from Johnnie's hand, she dealt a blow that spilt another victim's blood in the pathway of the clamoring pack.

Bess now prepared to throw out the hams if more attacks were made, but a new circumstance rendered this unnecessary. Prancer, whose pace had grown slower and slower, suddenly came to a dead halt, uttering a long, loud neigh. Bess turned her head, expecting to behold some new danger meeting her, but experienced joyful relief instead. She was within a clearing in the timber, and not far distant from a little cabin, in the door of which a bright light glimmered.

"Help!" called Bess, with all her voice, and then sank down almost as powerless as her wounded brother. The settler who owned the cabin heard the cry, and hastened out with two stout boys. When they reached the spot the wolves had vanished.

Johnnie and Bess were taken to the cabin and kindly cared for, and as soon as possible were carried to their home, some five miles distant. The next morning the settler and his boys went through the timber on a prospecting tour, and found that six wolves had met their death in the fierce combat of the night before.—Youth's Companion.

Ayer's Cathartic Pills,

For all the purposes of a Family Physic,

CURING

Costiveness, Jaundice, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Dysentery, Foul Stomach and Breath, Erysipelas, Headache, Piles, Rheumatism, Eruptions and Skin Diseases, Biliousness, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Tetter, Tumors and Salt Rheum, Worms, Gout, Neuralgia, as a Dinner Pill, and Purifying the Blood, are the most congenial purgative yet perfected. Their effects abundantly show how much they excel all other Pills. They are safe and pleasant to take, but powerful to cure. They purge out the foul humors of the blood; they stimulate the sluggish or disordered organ into action; and they impart health and tone to the whole being. They cure not only the every day complaints of every body, but formidable and dangerous diseases. Most skillful physicians, most eminent clergymen, and our best citizens, send certificates of cures performed and of great benefit they have derived from these Pills. They are the safest and best physic for children, because mild as well as effectual. Being sugar coated, they are easy to take; and being purely vegetable, they are entirely harmless.

Ayer's Ague Cure,

FOR THE SPEEDY RELIEF OF

Fever and Ague, Intermittent Fever, Chill Fever, Remittent Fever, Dumb Ague, Periodical or Bilious Fever, &c., and indeed all the affections which arise from malarious, marsh, or miasmatic poisons,

Has been widely used during the last twenty-five years, in the treatment of these distressing diseases, and with such unvarying success that it has gained the reputation of being infallible. The shakes, or chills, once broken by it, do not return, until the disease is contracted again. This has made it an accepted remedy, and trusted specific, for the Fever and Ague of the West, and the Chills and Fever of the South.

Ayers' Ague Cure eradicates the noxious poison from the system, and leaves the patient as well as before the attack. It thoroughly expels the disease, so that no Liver Complaints, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Dysentery or Debility follow the cure. Indeed, where Disorders of the Liver and Bowels have occurred from Miasmatic Poison, it removes the cause of them and they disappear. Not only is it an effectual cure, but if taken occasionally by patients exposed to malaria it will expel the poison and protect them from attack. Travelers and temporary residents in Fever and Ague localities are thus enabled to defy the disease. The General Debility which is so apt to ensue from continued exposure to Malaria and Miasm, has no speedier remedy.

For Liver Complaints, it is an excellent remedy.
